Local Mental Health Therapist to appear at Bookstore Authors Night

ESTERO, Fla. (April 2, 2007) – Local author and licensed therapist Linda Meyerholz, MS, LMHC, will promote and sign her most recent book, "Recovery from Childhood in America," at Barnes & Noble in Coconut Point Mall as part of the store's first Local Authors/New Writers Night on April 12 at 6:30 p.m.

Meyerholz also will sign copies of her first book, "Codependency Sucks," and discuss her work in the field of recovery from addictions, dysfunctional relationships and domestic violence.

Barnes & Noble is in the center of the mall, located on U.S. 41 between Corkscrew Road and Coconut Road in Estero.

Linda Meyerholz, MS, LMHC, is a licensed therapist in private practice in Southwest Florida and the author of two books, "Codependency Sucks" and "Recovery from Childhood in America," which are available at Barnes & Noble stores, BarnesandNoble.com and Amazon.com. Meyerholz specializes in relationships, codependency and addiction recovery and is a member of the American Mental Health Counselors Association. She is an experienced workshop presenter and can be reached at (239) 949-4910, by email at lvnsupport@aol.com and through her Web site, www.lindameyerholz.com.
